DIFFERENCES IN PRICE IDEAS HALT CHINA'S EXPORT TRADE

Outflow Of Commodities Virtually At Standstill

DEALERS HOLD ON

Refuse To Cut Quotations Despite Stand Of Buyers

BY DAVID ARAKIE

There is no expansion in trade with regard to most China products, and these are now experiencing a quiet outlet. Many of these commodities are only moderately dealt in and fairly abundant available supplies of seasonable products tend to counteract any tendency to hardness. Prices in the produce market, nevertheless, cannot be knocked down in spite of the wide disparity in the rates prevailing in Shanghai and those that buyers in Europe and America are today offering. Quotations ruling here are influenced largely by the stubborn attitude of the dealers, who are reluctant to come down in their selling ideas.

Export trade in products is generally featureless, trade being virtually at a standstill. Until the Chinese seller or the European and American buyer revises his quotations business cannot help but proceed with little freedom. Despite the large amount of talk of the lack of demand for goods, it is a fact that so far as many North China products are concerned, a demand for them exists but at prices which at best are a pound sterling per ton below the offering of the Chinese dealer on this side.

HIGH PRICES

In one particular line it would seem that the chances of doing business on a large scale are killed by the high price prevailing. This is with particular reference to rapeseeds. London buyers have found it necessary, under the conditions ruling in the Shanghai market, to draw largely on India for these supplies, while, Japan even during the past fortnight purchased no less than 10,000 tons from India. This is not a retaliatory step against the Chinese boycotters, but a case where Indian rapeseeds are selling at about 20 percent cheaper than Chinese. And when it is considered that there is no justification for the high rates ruling for this product in Shanghai, especially as last year this time business was being transacted at a tael per picul less, it would seem that something in the nature of an attempt at profiteering is now being resorted to by the Chinese dealers.

And this is not the only consideration that leads us to make these remarks. The crop this season has been a particularly good one, much better than the last, and this in itself is sufficient justification for buyers abroad to presuppose that values will at least not rule higher than last year's level. At any rate, it would appear that these anticipations are going to be smashed, and business that in the ordinary course should come to this market, especially in rapeseeds, is being diverted to channels that are offering better inducements in point of values.

OIL SEED SECTIONS

The tendency for higher levels of valuations is apparent in practically most oil seeds sections. Japan, which in the ordinary course, takes a large quantity of rapeseeds, has been so far behind in her consumption of Chinese rapeseeds. The Japanese buyers expect an important decline in the price, and when this comes about it is the belief of those in the trade that quite a fair volume of business will result. Within the next month or so buying should be heavy from that quarter, and unless the Shanghai-Japanese exchange or the Shanghai market price is altered favorably little business will be attracted here. Even at the present rate of Tls. 5.20 per picul there is a fair margin of profit to the Japanese oil mills, but nobody can blame these buyers in seeking the cheapest market for their purchases. Some business is being done daily by the local Japanese hongs, but they comprise small lots, and have no influence on the trend of prices.

Three American Schooners Seized Off Siberia

(Reuter's Service)

New York, June 21.—It is reported that three American schooners have been detained at East Cape in Siberia and the crews arrested on a charge of violating the Russian trading laws.

The Phoenix Trading Company of Tacoma, the owner of one of the schooners detained at East Cape, has telegraphed to the State Department for help, but it is reported that the Department will not make any representations to the Soviet as it has repeatedly warned traders venturing within Soviet jurisdiction that they do so at their own risk.

EXPECT DEMANDS OVER LINCHENG THIS WEEK

Chamber Of Commerce And Rotary Club To Help Chinese Captives

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, June 18.—It is understood that the Chinese authorities expect that the demand for indemnities and other demands to be made by the Powers in connection with the Lincheng Outrage will be handed in to the Waichiaopu during the present week.

To effect the release of the 370-odd Chinese captives at Paotzuku still held for ransom by the Lincheng bandits, two more directors of the Chinese Chamber of Commerce will be sent to Tsaochuang, leaving here Sunday morning. The delegates will be Mr. Yu Yah-ching, the shipping magnate, and Mr. S. S. Feng, who was sent to Tsaochuang together with directors Wen Lan-ting and Tung An-sung during the early stage of the negotiations.

The three formerly sent to the scene were forced to return on account of numerous obstructions placed in their way by the bandits as well as the military authorities then negotiating, presumably for the release of all captives, foreign and Chinese captives alike. Reports were purposely spread in the districts that the Shanghai agents had come, not to release the men but to buy over the bandits to hold them and overthrow the Peking government, it is alleged. To scare the directors away, one of them was threatened with capitivity with a price of $1,000,000 on his head, it is declared.

Lately reports have been prevalent that the Chamber of Commerce at Shanghai is expected to pay the ransom for the Chinese captives, because the government had already exhausted its treasury in setting free the foreigners. A few local organisations, as a result, went so far as to contend that the chamber was not doing its duty in raising the money. As a matter of fact, it is officially learned, no such requests were ever formally made to the chamber.

However, at a meeting of the directors yesterday, the Chamber decided to send the two directors to Tsaochuang to see what could be done. If it is the real desire of the bandits and the officials that the Shanghai Chinese Chamber pay the bill for the outrage, the directors will authorise the two agents to pay the amount which, it is understood, is fixed at $50,000. They will raise the money within two days from among the local organisations, it is stated, and advance it for the immediate release of the Chinese, leaving the question of whether the government or the local bodies should foot the bill to later deliberation.

Harbin, June 20.—The Hunghutse bandits are very active in Heilungkiang. Many districts have been pillaged and the wealthy gentry carried off as captives.

The local organisations at a meeting today resolved to petition the authorities concerned to revive the Command for Bandit Exter-

BRITISH SHIP TO TEST NEW AMERICAN "DRY" LAW

Olympic Sails With Sealed Supply Of Liquor

LOOSEN LID

Crew's Drinks May Be Considered Medicinal

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 20.—The White Star liner, Olympic, left Southampton for New York today, a moderate supply of liquor in a sealed chamber, the door of which bears quadruplicate seals of the British Customs encased in small brass boxes, each fitted with a lock, in order to prevent them being broken by the vibration of the ship or otherwise. The liquor is intended for use on the homeward-voyage, when the seals will be broken outside the territorial limit.

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, June 20.—Fresh instructions have been issued which empower the Health authorities fully to consider the opinions of foreign ships' doctors regarding the quantity of liquor necessary for medicinal use. This admittedly opens the way to the inclusion of liquor ordinarily provided as the crew's rations.

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, June 20.—The sailing of the Olympic from Southampton to New York with sealed liquor is regarded as a concrete step to secure a definite elucidation of the law, perhaps through a test case in the American Courts.

French Assess Germans More Heavy Fines

(Reuter's Service)

Brussels, June 20.—It is reported from Aix-la-Chapelle that a court-martial has sentenced Herr Breuer, commercial manager of the Nordstern Mine at Hertzogenrath, to two months imprisonment and a fine of 11,000,000,000 marks, and Herr Rosenbaum, the technical manager, to one month's imprisonment and a fine of 50,000,000 marks for selling coal earmarked for reparations and for permitting the removal of coke seized by the authorities.

The Rhineland High Commission has decided that they shall be expelled after serving their sentences.

Anglo-Russian Note Writing Fever Ends

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 21.—The Russian Telegraph Agency in London has issued a summary of a Soviet Note to Marquess Curzon on June 18 in which M. Chicherin notes with satisfaction that the British Government agrees to recognise the Soviet explanations as sufficient for agreement and also that the British Government does not propose to make any demands for compensation except on a basis of reciprocity. The Note agrees with the British Government's conclusion that the correspondence may be considered ended.

British Minister Leaves Capital On Way To Shanghai

U. S. TO HAVE 4 MORE GUNBOATS ON YANGTSZE

New Craft To Replace Out-of-Date Vessels On River

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, June 20.—The Navy Department announces its intention to ask Congress to authorise the construction of eight cruisers, four river gunboats and three cruiser submarines.

The gunboats are required for river patrol work in China.

The four gunboats for which Secretary Denby has asked Congress are to be used on the Yangtsze Patrol.

At the present time the United States has six gunboats on the Yangtsze patrol. The patrol is commanded by Admiral W. W. Phelps, who uses the Isabel as his flagship. In the patrol are the Elcano, now at Ichang; the Villalobos and the Quiros, now at Shanghai; and the Mohacacy and Pallos, now at Chungking.

With the exception of the Isabel the gunboats are all relics of the Spanish-American war, either being ex-Spanish vessels taken by the Americans at that time, or ships used by the Americans. All are out-of-date and inadequate to meet the situation on the upper river.

For some time there has been considerable agitation by American business men and firms in China to have the United States better represented on the upper river so that American lives and American property would be adequately protected. From time to time there have been outbreaks on the river during which Americanships have been fired on and as that section is still in the throes of civil was there is urgent need of more and better ships.

The American Chamber of Commerce a few days ago telegraphed Secretary Denby again setting forth the urgent need of more ships and the Secretary at that time telegraphed that he would recommend that Congress provide more ships. His action yesterday in requesting four new ships is the concrete reply to the same message.

British Must File War Claims Here Before October 31

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 20.—British nationals are notified that they must file their claims in Shanghai or in London before October 31 next if they desire to take advantage of the agreement between Britain and Germany relative to the payment of pre-war debts out of the proceeds of the liquidation of German property in China.

Irish Deportees Out On Bail

Macdonnell On Trial In British Court On Bad Check Charge

J. T. Hammond, Complainant, Severely Cross-Examined By Counsel For Defense; Case Resumed Today

Valentine Vincent Macdonnell, well known solicitor and gentleman jockey, went on trial in the British Supreme Court yesterday before Sir Skinner Turner charged with having given Mr. J. T. Hammond a check for $100 on May 19 without having funds in the Mercantile Bank of India to cover the check.

During the trial yesterday Mr. Hammond was severely cross-examined by the counsel for the defense, and Mr. H. P. Wilkinson, the Crown Advocate, asked permission to amend the charge by changing the date from May 21 to May 19.

The case was adjourned late yesterday to be continued this morning.

Mr. Ranald Macdonald appeared for the defence, and Mr. H. P. Wilkinson, Crown Advocate, prosecuted. The jurymen sworn in were Messrs. T. W. Sturton, K. H. Martin, W. Howell, T. A. Dee, and J. H. Pearson. Mr. E. Welman was challenged by the Crown advocate.

Mr. Macdonald asked if the grounds of objection would be given. Mr. Wilkinson said he did not think so.

After further discussion, the Judge held that the right of challenge was the same as in England. The Crown Advocate had the right of challenge up to three. At any rate the Crown had a right to ask that a juror should stand by.

The Crown Advocate then addressed the jury. The accused did not borrow money nor did he give an I. O. U. Mr. Macdonnell got $100 and gave Mr. Hammond a check which was no good, and which Mr. Macdonnell knew was no good. The mere fact that a man hoped to repay it when he was in funds or redeem it was an entirely different state of affairs and was no defence to this charge.

QUESTION IS OF INTENT

There was the question of intent. It was difficult to find out what was in a man's mind, and the jury had to judge in a common sense way the actions of a man, and the action here was the handing over of the check. The case for the Crown was that Mr. Macdonnell intended that check to be treated as a good one.

This money was got on the racecourse and it was submitted that it was obtained for spending it again. Therefore a man giving money on a racecourse to another looked to the credit of the man himself and would put faith in a document as a valid order for money. It was not a question of borrowing money, but Mr. Hammond was asked to cash a check, not to make an advance or a loan.

It was difficult to think that a business man and a lawyer did not know that he had not an account at the bank. Counsel then referred to the fact that nothing had been done with regard to the cheque on the 19th, 21st 22nd and 23rd. Mr. Hammond had exercised a right which all had. It was an ungrateful position to be in. Most people would avoid it, but that was no reason at all for casting any doubt at all upon the evidence of Mr. Hammond as to what had happened.

HIS DUTY TO ACT

After allowing grace for several days it was his duty to take action. The jury would have to eliminate all questions as to whether a man was popular or unpopuar. When they realised the facts it would be a great relief to their minds, and they could make up their minds on a question of fact, and that question of fact included intention. The intention would be proved by the facts, and he (the Crown Ad-

JAPAN CHAMBERS HOLD BOYCOTT VIOLATES TREATY

Commercial Bodies Ask Government To Put Screws On China

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, June 15.—The following resolution was passed this morning by the Japan Associated Chambers of Commerce at a conference attended by representatives of the Tokio Chamber of Commerce, and five other leading Chambers of Commerce.

"The boycott movement in China is indisputably a violation of the Sino-Japanese Treaty and a disregard of international obligations. The Japanese Government is urged therefore to make such representations to the Chinese authorities as will bring about a cessation of this movement."

The above resolution will be formally presented to the Premier, to the Minister for Foreign Affairs and the Minister for Agriculture and Commerce.

FOREIGN POWERS WILL MAKE DRASTIC DEMANDS ON PEKING GOVERNMENT

Political Situation In Turmoil As Manchurian And Chekiang M. P's. Desert, Making Quorum Impossible—Chang And Lu Want Presidency

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 21.—The diplomatic correspondent of the Daily Telegaph understands that the European, American and Japanese Governments, acting on the British initiative, are about to frame for presentation to Peking a series of very energetic demands for the protection of foreign colonies in China. He suggests that they will relate to police, financial, administrative and possibly military measures.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, June 21.—While superficially there has been little change in the political situation, there has been considerable activity behind the scenes. The attitude of Parliament towards the Presidential question is considered important. In spite of the money paid to the Members of Parliament, many have left Peking. Fifty Manchurian Members of Parliament have departed and the Cabinet has sent a representative to Mukden to induce them to return. Thirty Chekiang Members of Parliament have also returned to their province. Others have gone to Tientsin. These departures render a Parliamentary quorum impossible. In addition, the military leaders are divided into two groups in consequence of the Presidential coup. Dissensions are occuring within each group while friction between General Chang Tso-lin and General Lu Yung-hsiang is reported, each having ambitions to become Vice-President.

Peking, June 20.—Senhor de Freitas, the Portuguese Minister and Doyen of the Diplomatic Corps, called at the the Ministry of Foreign Affairs yesterday with regard to the political crisis. The Doyen declared that in the opinion of the Diplomatic Corps, the present situation was different from that of last year, when Mr. Chow Tse-chi, then Premier, took charge of the Chief Executive's affairs in consequence of ex-President Hsu Shih-chang's departure for Tientsin.

The Diplomatic Corps, he said, could not recognise the assumption of the presidential duties by the present Cabinet, whose status was open to question. He added that for this reason, the Diplomatic Corps had decided to defer sending a formal reply to the Waichiaopu with reference to its recent note announcing the resignation of President Li Yuan-hung and the temporary assumption of the Presidential functions by the Cabinet.

Tientsin, June 20.—President Li Yuan-hung issued a despatch to the Senate and the House of Representatives and at the same time forwarded a copy of the message to the Diplomatic Corps, yesterday, repudiating a recent resolution of Parliament authorising the Cabinet to take charge of the Chief Executive's affairs pending the election of a President, owing to his "desertion of office." A translation of the despatch follows:

"With reference to the resolution jointly adopted by the Senate and the House of Representatives on June 16, in connection with the assumption of the presidential duties by the Cabinet, I have to inform you that the resolution is illegal.

"I have previously announced that I left the Capital on the 13th inst., because in view of the pressure being brought to bear upon me, I found it impossible to discharge my duties freely.

"In the circumstances, I have the right to exercise my power and authority in my capacity as the President of the Republic in any locality within the territory of this country. It is not unprecedented in other countries that their Chief Executives sometimes traveled beyond the limit of their national boundaries (and yet retained the power and authority incident to their high offices).

"How can you therefore characterise my forced departure from Peking as desertion of office?

"The resignations of Premier Chang Shou-tseng and the Cabinet Ministers were accepted by mandates under date of the 13th. How can they repudiate the mandates issued in accordance with due legal procedure?

"The number of legislators present at the Parliamentary session on the 16th and the manner in which the aforesaid resolution was passed did not conform with

JAPAN NAMES DELEGATE FOR RUSS CONFERENCE

Preliminary Meeting Between Kawakami And Joffe Today

(Eastern News Agency)

Tokio, June 21.—Count Uchida, Minister of Foreign Affairs, was received in audience by the Prince Regent today, when the Minister of Foreign Affairs submitted for Imperial sanction regarding Japan's reply to the Moscow Government, the appointment of Mr. Kawakami, the Japanese Minister to Poland, as a delegate of the Japanese Government, and the opening of the preliminary Russo-Japanese negotiations.

Following his return from the Prince Regent's Palace Count Uchida summoned Mr. Kawakami the Minister for Japan to Poland, to the foreign office and officially named him as the delegate of the Tokio Government in connection with the forthcoming Russo-Japanese negotiations. At the same time the Foreign Minister dispatched a telegram to the Moscow Government, notifying it to that effect. It is learned that Mr. Kawakami will have an interview with M. Joffe at the Seiyoken Hotel on the 22nd, when arrangements necessary for the opening of the negotiations are to be made between the delegates of the two countries.

(Eastern News Agency)

Tokio, June 19.—Taking the advantage of the opening of the informal Russo-Japanese negotiations, the press is of the opinion that time is opportune and declares that of many problems pending between the two countries the Nikolaievsk affair is the hardest nut to crack, adding that unless there is hope of settling this affair definitely, it is impossible to hold negotiations as to the rest of problems. The press also warns Russia that while public opinion in Japan is rather favorable towards Russia, an unexpected dilemma will possibly be brought about, if M. Joffe should place too much confidence in such a tendency in Japan as referred to above.

legal requirements.

"If Parliament found me guilty, the legislators should adjudge the case according to the dictates of their conscience due to the stipulations of the Provisional Constitution. It is not right that they should indulge in vain rhetorical display and adhere to the forces of the tyrant with a view to oppressing a president who has no means to resist. By so doing, you have made yourselves outlaws of the country.

"In conclusion, I must emphasise that until my office is legally discharged by Parliament, any successor to me elected by any means whatever will be illegitimate."

Peking, June 20.—Government circles are heaving a sigh of relief upon receipt of a reliable report that General Chang Tso-lin, while ready to throw in his weight with the anti-Chihli elements in the event of an outbreak, will not initiate hostilities with the Chihli faction in the interests of President Li Yuan-hung.

General Chang is reported to have declared that President Li is not worth the cost of a campaign against the Chihli oligarchy.

In the opinion of the officials, the anti-Chihli coalition awaits General Chang to throw down the gauntlet and if the latter is not enthusiastic, there will be no danger of an immediate clash.

Latest reports from Tientsin, however, indicate that the anti-Chihli elements are hard at work. The fact that even General Tuan Chi-jui has given up his Buddhistic contemplation and has taken a keen interest in the situation is an ominous sign that a clash will be inevitable.

Rumors are rife that President Li will soon leave Tientsin for Shanghai to prepare for the shifting of the Capital.

The political situation is at a deadlock. Although the coup d'etat against President Li Yuan-hung was obviously executed with a view to bringing to a successful culmination the scheme of the Tientsin clique to secure the Presidency for General Tsao Kun, it appears that the Presidential campaign, instead of being accelerated with President Li's elimination from the Capital, has received a sudden check.

It is undestood that the Chihli "wire-pullers" have decided to have the Presidential "election" held one month hence. Inasmuch as the disintegration of Parliament is going on steadily with the large number of legislators flocking to Tientsin and Shanghai, however, there is no likelihood that a President will be "elected" a month from now.

The Government—if that host of Mandarins whose resignation has been accepted but who are still functioning may be called a Government—is in a topsy-turvy condition. Mr. Kao Ling-wei, Minister of Interior, is doing his utmost to prevent Premier Chang Shou-tseng from returning to Peking. The dissension among the Cabinet Ministers themselves has certainly aggravated the already chaotic situation.

The hirelings of the Chihli faction, who harassed President Li Yuan-hung, while he was in Peking, now have proved a grave source of trouble even to the "contractors" themselves. The Cabinet accordingly decided at today's session to issue an order for the arrest of the "citizens of the Republic" who shall hold demonstrations against the legislators or other agents of the Paotingfu potentate.

Chinese Merchants Protest To Recommendations Wired By American Trade Bodies

General Chamber Of Commerce Submits China Businessmen Do Not Endorse Suggestions Resulting From Lincheng Bandit Attack

Exception to the wording of the recent message directed to Washington by the American Chamber of Commerce and the American Association of China in connection with the Lincheng bandit affair has been taken by the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce here, which has sent a letter to the American Chamber and Association to this effect.

The Chinese trade body questions the section of the message to Secretary of State Hughes wherein it is set forth that the recommendations made have the approval of the Chinese merchants and bankers. The recommendations made included the suspension of benefits to China under the Washington Conference, the stationing of foreign guards on lines of communication, both land and water, the placing of foreign garrisons at strategic points throughout China, foreign supervision of China's finances and suspension of the return of the Boxer Indemnity. Such recommendations, if they should become effective, the Chinese Chamber declares, would prove a "remedy worse than the disease" and would lead to serious international complications.

Following is the text of the communication addressed to the American Chamber of Commerce, a similar letter having been sent to the Association.

"Dear Sir: With reference to the cablegram sent by your Chamber and the American Association of China to the American Government at Washington, consisting principally of a series of six recommendations affecting China's relations with the foreign Powers, we find that the following paragraph occurs at the end of the recommendations.

"'These recommendations meet with approval of substantial Chinese business and banking interests who deprecated chaotic conditions in China. . . .'

"While expressing our appreciation of the spirit of eagerness with which your organisation is striving to hasten the return of normal trade conditions and to bring about the cessation of disturbances in this country, we much regret to say that in consideration of the fundamental differences between Chinese and foreign opinions regarding the modes of procedure by which a new era of prosperity and peace is to be inaugurated in China, this Chamber has to emphatically declare that it cannot see its way to express its approval of the recommendations which you have made.

"In the opinion of this Chamber, these recommendations, if put into effect, will lead to such international complications that whatever remedial effect, which the proposed measures are designed to produce will be sought in vain, as there is every indication that the remedy proposed will prove to be worse than the disease. The Chamber believes that what has been said represents the public opinion of the Chinese people as a whole."

vocate) wascaling with facts right there.

Det. Sergt Beer said he executed the vrant on May 25 at 1 Broadw Previous to being cautione Macdonnell said: "Good Lor what is this?"

After beingarned he said, "I understand."

Mr. Macdon: Did you notice anything as tMr. Macdonnell's health? At tt time, no, but when he was tught to the Central Police Stan at 8.15 p.m. I noticed a ras

HAMMOND EVIDENCE

Witness adde that accused's lips were swoll

Mr. Hammon then gave evidence, dealing wh his relations with Mr. Macdnell and what had transpired the Kiangwan racecourse. Witss had had no financial relatio with the accused save the nding over of $100 for the chee in question.

By the Crown dvocate: You did not collect your sweep tickets on Satury? No. I collected them on Tuesday. One was collected on Monday and three were left ov for Tuesday.

Is the 19th a rat date? Yes.

Did you see r. Macdonnell again that day to lk to him? I believe it was Sarday. I saw him after I gave m $100. He came up to me nd remarked that it was the bt day he ever had in his life. Im not certain now whether dt vs Monday or Saturday.

You cashed the heque for him on Saturday? Ye

Was anything ore said by him to you as re rds the value of that cheque o Monday or Saturday? No. There was no conversation betwen us about the money.

Was anything said by Macdonnell to you sout it afterward? Yes. On Tuesday morning about 10 o'clock. He rang me up and askedme if I minded if he would cne to take the cheque instead of my sending it to the Bank. I old him that I would be out but y shroff would have the cheque nd would cash it for him. Myshroff had the cheque until Wenesday.

APPLIES FO WARRANT

Witness said h applied for a warrant on the 25th. In his sworn informatio he gave the date of his cashin the cheque as the 19th. He was misled by the date on the cheque and thought accused had made mistake of a month, but he wa satisfied now that the date was the 19th. because he put th cheque with some uncashed sweep tickets of the 19th.

On the 26th accused called with Mr. and Mrs. Jones and Mr. Jones offered an explanation to which he paid little heed. Accused said he was very sorry and offered to fix the matter up. out of his hands He had no feeling against Mr. Macdonnell.

Daniel Thornley, cashier of the Mercantile Bank of India, said the cheque wa a regular form and was issued to Mrs. Goldie Jones. It was not filled in by the person who had the account. The cheque, he thought had been filled in by only one person. The accused had no account at the Bank.

Then Mr. Hammond was cross-examined by Mr. Ranald Macdonald.

You have a good memory? Fairly good.

Is it a memory that improves with time? I do not know if it improves in a reasonable time.

DENIES HE IS HASTY

Would you agree that you are a hasty and vindictive man? I am sorry to say I would not.

You would call yourself a suspicious man? No, I don't think so from the way I acted in this case.

Witness added that he had never asked the accused for any tips, and if he had been denied a tip once, he would not be likely to ask for tips again.

You trusted him? I trusted the check after I gave him $100. If he came up to you without a check would you give him money? Yes, three times that amount.

Counsel, dealing with events on Saturday and Monday, said he was putting it to witness that he was committing deliberate perjury.

Witness: That is your statement.

Were you not angry because of Dallas being in the judge's box? No. Didn't you say the judge was influenced by Dallas? I remember you making that statement.

NEVER ACCUSED JUDGE

That the judge was influenced by Dallas in the decision, that they robbed the public? I did not say any such thing and I did not have any such conversation with Macdonnell.

That they were scoundrels and the judges had robbed you of your money? I did not.

Witness said that he seldom went to a race course but that he loaned about a thousand dollars in various sums to people.

Counsel asked witness if he remembered on Tuesday (when Mr. Macdonnell telephoned) on what day the money had been borrowed.

Witness said he might have remembered it then.

The Judge: And you swore a false oath on Thursday.

I remembered then.

When did you go to Mr. Wing? Friday morning.

Mr. Macdonald: Do you want to alter the day? I don't want to alter any date.

ONLY CRITCAL ONE

The Judge: Except the critical one.

Witness was severely cross-examined as to what transpired at the office on the Saturday morning when Mr. and Mrs. Jones were present with the accused. Witness thought that he had acted with exceptional leniency.

Then the Judge subjected witness to a lengthy cross-examination as to the change of date, and insisted that witness had sworn to two false oaths and for a fortnight nothing had been done to give intimation to the defence or the Court until yesterday as to the change of date.

The Judge remarked that witness had to be examined as to his general veracity, and Mr. Macdonald was going to say to the jury that witness was a deliberate perjuror. It was a very serious matter.

This ended the case for the Crown.

Opening the case for the defence, Mr. Macdonald said that it was essential that the prosecution should prove intent to defraud and that at the time accused falsely pretended that he had an account in the Mercantile Bank. Before they could find him guilty the jury must be satisfied beyond all doubt that he intended at the time to defraud. The accused could easily have paid back the money, for on Saturday he won some $1,200 and on Monday he had a good day, winning on Settrington. Accused had been a soldier with 4½ years service in Gallipoli and Palestine. He had twice suffered from shell shock and, like many others similarly afflicted, he had become slightly casual, slightly happy-go-lucky and slightly careless. Counsel contended that no single action of accused was that of a guilty man. Mr. Hammond after realising that the defence was perfect had come into court and committed perjury in altering the date from Monday the 21st to Saturday the 19th.

Macdonnell in the witness box said that when he rang up Mr. Hammond on Tuesday the latter's manner put him so at his ease that he attached no importance to the matter. On Thursday he rang up two or three times and got him about 10 a.m. Mr. Hammond spoke jokingly to him and said that he would be in about three. Accused promised to try and slip round about that hour but he was rather sick after tiffin and was lying down at 3 p.m. He was sitting down when Det.-Sergt. Beer came and arrested him. He was taken to the Police Station where he was kept for about five hours.

Counsel referred to this as an indignity placed on the accused through Mr. Hammond's attitude and suggested that this might be the basis of another case.

Accused said that on the Saturday he and Mr. and Mrs. Jones went to Mr. Hammond's office and offered him the money then and there. He had $1,500 to $1,600 with him. Mr. Hammond said that the matter was now out of his hands and in the hands of the solicitors.

Cross examined Macdonnell said that Mr. Hammond had frequently asked him for tips. Very few people were so inquisitive as racecouse frequenters. His own belief was that Mr. Hammond had brought the action out of revenge because he had refused to give him tips.

The case was adjourned until this morning.

Frawley Company

The second engagement of the season by the T. Daniel Frawley company will begin tonight in Shanghai with the presentation of "Enter Madame," a comedy, at the Lyceum theater. Adele Blood, well known on the American stage, and head of the Frawley company, will play the role of Madame, the temperamental prima donna. Mr. Frawley is cast as the husband.

"Enter Madame," incidentally, was one of the most popular bills in the Frawley repertoire during the tour of the Malay States and India, it is said. The piece was used as an opening bill in a number of cities.

Others in the play besides Miss Blood and Mr. Frawley are Bernard Nedell, Florence Roberts, Alden MalClaskey, Lester Sybe, Helen Barnes, Dorris Kemper, Herbert Light and Betty Barnicoat.

"The Cat and the Canary" will comprise the bill on Saturday night, and the repertoire for the remainder of the engagement will be as follows: Monday night, June 25, "My Lady Friends;" Tuesday, June 26, "Smilin' Through," Wednesday, June 27, "Tea for Three," Thursday, June 28, "Anna Christie," Friday, June 29, "Lawful Larceny," and the closing bill on Saturday night, June 30, will be "The Gold Diggers."

The Angers will sail for Marseilles as scheduled, and the outgoing passenger tender will leave the French Mail jetty at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Mail matter going on the Delta may be posted up to 1 p.m. and 12 noon tomorrow for ordinary and registered, and that to be sent on the Angers will close at the same hours today.

Bringing the next mail from the United States, the President Grant will arrive in Shanghai from Seattle and Japan ports next Sunday, and is to dock at the China Merchants Central Wharf. The liner has on board 1,178 bags of mail and 1,800 tons of cargo as well as a full list of passengers for Shanghai, and will sail for Hongkong and Manila next Tuesday.

The President Wilson which arrived from San Francisco yesterday morning and docked at the China Merchants Central Wharf, has been postponed on account of weather and is now to sail for Hongkong and Manila at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The Shinyo Maru of T.K.K. sailed from Woosung yesterday afternoon and is due to arrive in San Francisco via Japan ports and Honolulu on July 16.

Driver Who Hurt Chain Of Prisoners Fined In Mixed Court

An unusually flagrant case of reckless motor car driving was heard in the traffic branch of the Mixed Court yesterday when a chauffeur was charged with running into a chain of prisoners who were being taken along Nanking Road tied together, the other evening.

Detective Sergeant Beer stated to the Court that he and other officers had just made a gambling and opium den raid and were escorting a number of prisoners to Louza station. Emerging from Yunnan Road, they started across Nanking Road. Witness saw the car coming and went ahead and signalled it to stop. The driver paid no heed to the signal but ran through a line of red danger lamps surrounding some tramway repair work and crashed into the string of prisoners, knocking four of them down. Fortunately none of them was seriously hurt.

The driver was fined $30 and ordered to pay $6.50 additional to the Tramways Company for damage to its lamps.

News Brevities

Forty-one traffic cases were heard by the special traffic branch of the Mixed Court yesterday, when fines ranging from $2 to $30 were imposed. Two courts were in session, the presiding officials being Assessors Whitamore and Berger and Magistrates Loh and Li.

The operator of an opium den at 579 Kaifeng Road was fined $50 in the Mixed Court yesterday and the keeper of a similar establishment at 915 Ju Ts Li paid a $30 fine.

Denby Favors Conference On Disarmament

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 21.—It is reported from Washington that Mr. Denby, the Secretary of the Navy, favors negotiations and possibly another armament conference for the purpose of clearing up the difficulties arising from the Washington treaties, notably the question of elevating the guns of battleships in order to increase their range, but it is understood that Mr. Hughes, the Secretary of State, is loath to take any step towards such clearing up until France has ratified the Treaties.

Export Trade Is Halted By Prices

to only 500 tons, but arrivals are growing large, and in the absence of a brisk movement of cargo supplies should accumulate and prove instrumental then in bringing about some reduction in rates. English buyers are offering £17 per ton, which represents, in terms of the local quotation, a difference of a pound sterling. Under the circumstances it is difficult to look for an immediate improvement. There is no export demand for rapeseed oil, but the inquiry for local needs is fair. The Shanghai mills do not crush rapeseeds as they cannot compete with the interior mills, which have the decided advantage of being located near the centers of production and in a position thus to buy cheaper than their competitors in Shanghai.

It would seem that supplies of peanuts have been practically exhausted, for available cargo is very small. The season is drawing to a close, but there is little or no demand for the commodity, and the quotation nominal at Tls. 7 per picul. In peanut oil there is a absence of demand from the Continent and from America, and trade in this is limited at present to South China, where small quantities are moving at about Tls. 14.50 per picul ex-mill.

Soya beans are weaker at Tls. 4.15 per picul. It would appear that the demand for soya bean cakes is on a diminishing scale. The new crop of Chinese beans will be on the market in August next and the old crop supplies are limited for the moment. Arrivals of soya beans from Dairen are light. There is very little doing in bean oil.

Sesamum seeds are dead, the quotation being nominal at Tls. 7.30 per picul. Europe is practically out of this market, the offer of the European consumers being £23.10 per ton, a pound lower than the Shanghai price. Inquiries are for small parcels but trade in this line is particularly dull.

Owing to the speculative element being active on the English market which has served to import a steadier tone to the price of this product, it is expected that this will influence the quotation for bean oil and wood oil which are already showing signs of a recovery. There is a better general feeling in the oil market. The speculative turn in the English linseed market is the result of a belief that the Argentine crop will be smaller than last year.

Knute Hansen's Status As Boxer Misunderstood, Stadium Manager Explains

There is no doubt that there is a good deal of misunderstanding in boxing circles regarding the exact status of Knute Hansen, the heavyweight boxer who arrived here some time ago and who has been seen at the Stadium a few times in exhibition matches. Too much stress has been placed upon this young man's heavyweight championship aspirations, and unfortunately he was introduced a time or two as "the man who hoped to meet Dempsey."

As a matter of fact Knute does not claim to be anywhere near Dempsey's class, but he does hope that some day he will have achieved such distinction in his profession as a boxer as to be considered entitled to a try for the heavyweight crown. But that is a long way off, and Knute says himself that in all probability some other fighter will have taken the measure of the redoubtable Jack long before he is able to even begin to think about doing so.

The best explanation of Knute's present aims and future hopes is contained in the following letter from the Stadium management. In this letter, which was addressed to the writer of the "Sports and Stage" column in the China Press, the writer goes into the case fully, his inspiration being a paragraph of comment in the "Sport and Stage" column of last Sunday. The letter follows:

Referring to your article in last Sunday's paper with regards to the Stadium and Knute Hansen will say that your remarks about Knute about took me off my feet, for, while you praise him in one instance for being a "finally built and clean young athlete" you in your next paragraph slam him down to the boards by saying that he could not even figure in a preliminary with Jack Dempsey.

Now, where do you get this stuff about Jack Dempsey? You are simply a lot of surmisers. Did you or any one else in Shanghai ever hear Knute or the Stadium Management come out with the statement that Knute wanted to meet Jack Dempsey? Knute Hansen is simply announced and will continue to announce himself as a coming contender for the world's heavy weight title.

Maskee what the sporting writers, or the audience thinks about the matter, this is the rank that Knute now stands in, he is not claiming to be Champion of this, or that; he is simply announcing his ambition that a year or so after reaching his majority that his ambition is to try for the heavy weight Championship of the world. Knute at present is among the youngest boxers who have appeared in the Stadium, being only 19 years of age.

Of course you know, I know, and the audience knows that Knute would never be given a chance on the title, it takes money to get a match with Mr. Dempsey. George Carpentier had money, he got a match with Jack Dempsey. Jess Willard and now Tom Gibbons can get a match with Jack Dempsey yes, but both of these fighters are moneyed men. In Knute Hansen Shanghai has the makings of a real heavyweight Champion. Knute has taken up his permanent residence with us here wants to become one of us, and as he has a good position he is independent from any earnings he may acquire from the boxing game. Knute realises his position, he knows that he does not yet possess his full kick, no man does at 19. Reaching the age of 23 or 24 he will have his full strength, his mighty left (for he is naturally left handed) will have the kick of an express train, then, he will be ready for Mr. Dempsey or any other individual who might at the time possess the title, providing he can get some Shanghai capitalist who is sporty enough and game enough to lay out the necessary dollars for the newspaper propaganda.

Enough about his strength, now, about his quickness, well you must see him box with either Matty Smith or Chadwick to prove that, take it from me he is fully as quick as Matty Smith, and possibly as quick as Chadwick.

Now about the preliminary stuff will say that Jack Dempsey fought a preliminary for Matty Smith in Denver in 1916 when Matty Smith was fighting the main event against Bowers. For the love of Mike give Knute a chance for after all is he not only a kid.

SAYS "BUGS" Baer:

BASEBALL AIN'T LIVELY ENOUGH

Faster Egg Would Give Bleacherites More Chance To Swipe Balls

Some more about that rabbit ball. It goes up slow and excursion back fast. It turns outfielders into rabbit dogs. Babe Ruth cooked more home runs with it in 1921 than an entire league slapped in 1900.

It may drift up to the plate like a bum sliding up to a back door, but it comes back faster than a bad check. Pitchers are affidaviting that their lives aren't worth a fish on a wharf.

Batters complain in crude but legal terms that the cover must be made of a mule's ears. Some days the ball is balky. They can't knock it out of the catchers hands. On other, more powerful matinees, can drop it over the fence like a disinherited tomato can sailing through the backyard gaiden district.

Infielders are sure there must be kangaroo whiskers inside the cover from the way the grounders hop and mutter. Outfielders are equally certain about this. But none of them complain when it is their turn at bat.

League office boys could make all things square by using two baseballs in each game. Just as hucksters sell eating and cooking apples, they could use a batting and a fielding ball. That would make everybody happy. The fielding ball would be loaded with lead and would give the infield twenty-seven assits every game. The batting ball could be full of watch springs and rubber. Anything under three bases would be an insult to the official scorer.

The National and American Leagues are naturally rivals. The circuit with the heavy bombarding will grab the oil at the gate. What could be better advertising than twenty-seven guaranteed home runs every game or your money back with athletic interest?

That idea must have been the hatching of the rabbit ball. But if both leagues go back to the soggy biscuit of 1900, batting would simmer down to a whisper and the fans would stay home and make fishing rods out of broom handles.

From the bleachers' angle the ball ain't fast enough, Brokers and bankers can afford grandstand seats, where stealing foul balls is recognised by custom and ignored by law. But their victims out in the fifty-cent beacher lobby only average about one home run a day.

So the league presidents should get their opinions together and make the baseball even quicker than it is now. We don't know which man is the proudest, the bleacher native who can take a baseball home to his youngest morn and say, "This is the ball that Babe Ruth knocked into the nickel seats for a home run. It was a convalescent wallop and the umpire called it fair. It won the game.

Or the man who nicks a foul tip, stuffs it into his souvenir pocket, takes it home to his silly son and says, "This is the ball that Ruth fouled into the stands. It knocked an old lady so cuckoo that she had to go to Switzerland for treatment. I had to kick three elderly Quakers in the face to get it. A cop tried to arrest me for stealing, but I denied that I had it. Keep this ball and treasure it, my son, because it is the worst effort that a renowned batter ever made. It also proves that your old man is a crook. Furthermore, it was a bum four tip, it was called a strike and it only helped to slow up the game."

Which ball do you think Ruth would autograph?

So make the baseball livelier and improve the fans if not the umpires.

New Orleans Youth Regarded As Rival Of Weissmuller

New Orleans.—There has been developed in New Orleans a young wonder swimmer, who is hailed a coming Weissmuller. Bud Smith, of the Young Men's Gymnastic Club, seventeen years old, is the lad in question, and he is credited with doing 100 yards in the amazing time of 53 1-5 seconds. Smith has been covering the century consistently under 56 seconds, and undoubtedly he is one of the most brilliant swimming prospects the United States has produced.

The boy has displayed remarkable ability at the back stroke also, turning 100 yards around 1.10 and 440 yards under 6.25. Bud's older brother George, 19, is also a swimmer of good promise who has done in free style competition 100 yards in 59 seconds, 220 yards, 2:34 4-5, and 440 yards in 5:35 1-5. The young Southerners' future achivements will be awaited with interest, for it looks as if Bud would prove a leading candidate and George a possibility for the American Olympic swimming team in 1924.

WHEN YOUR CHILD IS FEVERISH

Baby's Own Tablets Are His First Need.

Simple fever may be the beginning of more serious trouble; therefore prompt measures are essential. Keep the child quiet in bed. Feed lightly, and give plenty of boiled or filtered water to drink. Administer Baby's Own Tablets according to the directions. The Tablets act on fever as a direct anti-febrile specific. They reduce the inflammation which causes the fever and calm the circulatory disturbance.

Mrs. M. D. Matheson, of 42 Dufresne St., Montreal, states: "My little boy, five years old, was threatened with fever. I gave him Baby's Own Tablets at night and in the morning he was better. I always use Baby's Own Tablets for my little ones."

Baby's Own Tablets are guaranteed absolutely safe and harmless, even to the youngest child, and are a remedy for infantile indigestion, constipation, colic, diarrhoea, croup, teething troubles and worms. Of dealers, or post free, 60 cents per vial, from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 60 Kiangse Road, Shanghai.

NEW DOCK WILL BE ESTABLISHED IN OLD STRAITS

Commons Hears More Argument On Singapore Base

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 20.—In the House of Commons today, replying to Commander Kenworthy, Commander Eyres-Monsell, Parliamentary Secretary to the Admiralty, said that the new dockyard and graving-dock at Singapore would be established in the Old Straits. The exact spot depended on the result of the forthcoming investigations. The question of providing an adequate floating-dock was being considered.

Commander Kenworthy urged the claims of a floating-dock against a graving-dock, and suggested that the position in the Straits was open to attack from land. He asked whether the War Office had been consulted in the matter.

Commander Eyres-Monsell replied that the matter had been very carefully considered in consultation with everybody concerned.

Replying to a further question from Commander Kenworthy with regard to the respective costs of a graving-dock and a floating-dock, capable of accommodating the largest warship under the Washington Convention, the Parliamentary Secretary said that the cost of a graving-dock depended so much on local conditions that it was impossible to state a figure which would be generally applicable. The dock would not be commenced for eighteen months or two years. The exact size had not been determined. It was too early to give any very exact estimate of the cost, but Commander Eyres-Monsell promised to see what he could do. A floating-dock would cost approximately £400,000. The cost of upkeep of a graving-dock would be very small, while the upkeep of a floating-dock would cost £10,000 a year.

(Reuter's Service)

Wellington, New Zealand, June 20.—A Ministerial statement was made in Parliament today to the effect that the Government proposed to double the naval subsidy, of which £100,000 should be offered to the Admiralty towards the new naval base at Singapore.

Emigration From Ireland To U. S. Trebles In Year

(China Press Service)

Belfast, June 19.—Emigration from Northern Ireland to the United States has been on the increase. During the three months ended March 31, 1,612 emigrants bound for America had their passports vised at the Belfast consulate. Similar vises during the corresponding period last year totalled 552.

The majority of the emigrants are from the counties bordering the six county area. Consulate officials described them as of a higher type than had in the past been the case with Irish immigrants.

INDIANS CHARGED WITH MURDER OF FELLOW NATIONAL

Two Watchmen Bronght Into British Police Court

Two Indian watchmen, Warrian Singh and Kalara Singh, 41 Robison Road, were brought into the British Police Court yesterday before Mr. D. R. Cooke, Court Registrar, and were charged with the murder of another watchman, Arjon Singh, whose body was found in a small creek off Great Western Road on June 12. The victim had been missing since April 24 and the murder is alleged to have been committed on April 26.

Mr. Eardley Maitland appeared for the prosecution and after evidence of arrest had been given, following the reading of the charge, the case was remanded until June 27. One of the accused Kalara singh, denied the charge and asked what evidence there was against him. The other made no comment.

Yuih Dzae School Has Class Games

The last of the finals in the first annual interclass track games at Yuih Dzae Academy, Shaohing, were held on Tuesday last, the heavy rains of the past few weeks having occasioned postponing the finals until the hot days of examination week.

The games were won by the Third Year Class with a score of 71 points, the Seniors taking second with 48. The Second year boys scored 10½, the First Year 9, and the Higher Primary School 4½ points. The meet would have been much closer and several records much better but for the untimely death of T. P. Yu, the captain of the school and Senior teams the week before the last finals. S. D. Fang of the Juniors won the individual championship with a score of 30 points, but was hard pressed by Z. T. Seng of the same class who had 29, and by S. Y. Wang and T. P. Yu of the Seniors who secured 22 and 21 points respectively. The best records made were Fang's 400 yds. in 59¼, low hurdles in 31⅗ and broad jump of 16.4; and Seng's half mile in 2.36 and high hurdles in 21¾.

Rotary Club Moves To Aid The Captives

Seven new members were elected to the Rotary Club at its weekly meeting yesterday at the Union Club. They were Earl F. Townsend, Claude Beatty, Harry E. Paddock, N. L. Han, J. B. Davies, Jack E. Ellis and Mr. Wallace.

A special committee was appointed, consisting of Tom Britton, Carl Crow and W. S. New, to devise means of effecting the release of the 370-odd Chinese captives still held by the Paotzuku bandits. The committee met immediately after the meeting, but refused to give out any statements last night.

In view of the decision made by the Chinese Chamber of Commerce to send two of its directors and to raise $50,000 for the work, it is probable that the committee will send two Rotarians to Tsaochuang to co-operate with them in the work.

Sun Yat-Sen To Head Attack On Waichow

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Canton, June 20.—Dr. Sun Yat-sen has again departed for the East River front to direct operations against Waichow, which has still not fallen, while some two brigades have left for the north to Yingtak to oppose the invading Northern troops.

The Cantonese are active in advocating peace and are still hoping for an agreement.

(Eastern News Agency)

Canton, June 18.—Dr. Sun Yat-sen today called together all leading persons here and held an important conference. It is reported that the public bodies here have recently wired to the members of Parliament in Peking asking them to come to Canton.

(Eastern News Agency)

Canton, June 18.—Yesterday Dr. Sun received urgent telegrams from Marshal Chang Tso-lin and General Lu Yung-hsiang, urging that a unanimous opposition should be raised to the assumption of the Presidency by Tsao Kun. In reply, Dr. Sun has telegraphed to them, agreeing to the proposition.

(Eastern News Agency)

Canton, June 18.—Interviewed by a representative of the Eastern News Agency today, Dr. Sun Yat-sen has made a statement to the following effect: So long as militarists in the North dominate, the resignation of Li Yuan-hung, and the confusion of the political situation in Peking are inevitable, which reveals the incompetence of the Peking Government and the intrigue of the militarists. In these circumstances, it is impossible to look forward to the peace and unification of China.

The urgent necessity of the moment for China is to overthrow the militarists so that she may bring about peace and unification. Though foreigners severely blame the Peking Government for the Lincheng incident and are now insisting upon the joint control of China, it is open to doubt whether the Powers will be able to control this country to their satisfaction. The Diplomatic Corps and the people of China should put me in the President's Office.

I am now giving thought to the question of establishing the Presidential Office in Canton, and this question may probably materialise when an occasion offers itself. In spite of the fact that there are those who circulate rumors that I have effected an understanding with General Chen Chiung-ming, this is the matter of which I have not the least knowledge. I have still a firm resolution to expel Chen Chiung-ming and thus to bring tranquility to Canton as soon as possible. I will once again proceed in a day or two to the district of the East River, when I will command the constitutionalist troops with a view to clearing Kwangtung Province of enemy's troops.

Former Japanese Minister To Peking Here

Former Minister to Peking Obata arrived in Shanghai yesterday on the Nagasaki Maru and is staying at the Hoyo Kwan Hotel in Seward Road. Mr. Obata came to Shanghai to meet the remains of the wife of Marquis Mayeda who died in Paris a short time ago. The remains are expected on the Porthos on June 25 and Mr. Obata will accompany them back to Japan.

Forty Thieves Rob Chinese Of $2,000

A gang of robbers, numbering about forty, broke into the house of Mr. Chu Ching, a prominent Kuomintang member, in the Northern district here at 2 o'clock Wednesday morning. The inmates were threatened with revolvers, driven into a room and bound up. The desperadoes then ransacked the house and decamped with about $2,000 worth of clothing and valuables. No arrest has been made.

Marks Recover To 500,000 Under N. Y. Influence

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 20.—German marks in Lohdon opened today with a sharp recovery to 500,000 to 520,000 under New York influence. Another factor was the conference at Berlin between the Chancellor and leading banking representatives in regard to measures to stay the fall of the mark, at which the opinion was expressed that the present low value was not warranted by the economic and political situation.

Marks are now quoted at 580,000 to 600,000.

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, June 20.—The Paris-London cross-rate is quoted today at £1=74.165 francs.

Terrible Heat Wave Sweeps Eastern U. S.

(BY UNITED PRESS)

New York, June 21.—New York, New England and the Middle West are suffering from a blistering wave of heat that is causing great damage to life and property.

Chicago reports thirteen dead from the heat and thirteen are also dead at various points in Ohio. Hundreds have been prostrated all over the Eastern part of the United States and crops in some places have been burned up. There is intense suffering in New York, especially on the crowded East Side.

The excessive heat has practically driven all passenger traffic off the railroads.

Conseil d'Administration Municipale de la Concession Francaise de Changhai

NOTICE

MUNICIPAL LOAN OF 1923

8.000 debentures of Tls. 100 each
(issued at Tls. 97 each)

Rate of interest 6% per annum

The "Conseil d'Administration Municipale de la Concession Francaise de Changhai" hereby invite subscriptions for 8.000 debentures of Tls. 100 each, issued at Tls. 97 each according to the resolution passed at their General Meeting on the 14th May 1923.

The conditions on which the Debenture Certificates will be issued are:

1°.—The Debenture Certificates are transferable, and the person whose name is entered in the Register of Debenture Certificate or Certificates shall alone be recognised and treated by the Council as the lawful and rightful holder and owner of such Debenture Certificate or Certificates.

2°.—The Debentures will be issued at Tls. 97 each.

3°.—The Debentures will be redeemable at par (Tls. 100 each) in not less than 10 years and not more than 30 years, from 1st December 1933 and according to the figures determinated by the Council.

4°.—The Debentures will bear interest at 6% per annum, payable on the 31st day of May and 30th day of November in each year, when interest warrants will be issued to the registered owners.

5°.—The Debenture Certificates will be issued and bear interest from 1st July 1923.

6°.—Applications for Debentures will be received at the Secretary's Office, Rue du Consulat, from June 20 next.

A cheque representing the amount of debentures asked for and payable on June 30th must be deposited at the same time.

7°.—Applications for Debentures under 97 will not be recognised by the Council.

8°.—For further informations, apply to Mr. P. Legendre, Secretary, French Municipal Council.
Shanghai, 31st May 1923.

By order,
P. LEGENDRE
Secretary.

Spot bar silver was down ¼d. and forward 3-16d. in London yesterday. The New York price declined to 65¼ cents and the London-New York cross rate to 462. At the opening our official quotations here were unchanged from yesterday but as the market was weak the rates were dropped twice during the day, the official Sterling rate at the close being 3/1, the Gold Dollar rate 71¼ and the Yen rate 69.

Our market at the opening was steady, became weak in the course of the day but firmed up slightly at the close. The highest rates at which business in Sterling was done were 3/1⅝ for June delivery, 3/1⅝ for July and 3/1¼ for August.

The highest rates for Gold Dollars were 72½ for June, 72¼ for July and 72 for August.

At one time business in Sterling was done as low as 3/1⅜ for June delivery, 3/1¼ for July and 3/1⅛ for August. Gold Dollars were done at 72 for June, 71⅞ for July and 71⅝ for August.

At the close, however there were sellers at about ⅛d. in Sterling and ⅛ point in Gold Dollars above these rates. There were sellers of Yen at the close at 67⅞ for June with buyers at 67¾ and sellers for August at 68¼ with buyers at 68⅛.

Banks were quoting 3/2 for Sterling bills for near delivery and 3/1⅞ for forward. They were quoting 74 for Gold Dollar bills for near and 73¾ for forward delivery. There were buyers of Franc bills at 1175.

India and China both sold silver in London yesterday and the market is reported easy. New York report their market as dull.

Exchange Market

In their weekly report on the Exchange market, Messrs. Maitland, Fearon and Brand write as follows:

Exchange:—The London price of silver at 32d. is ¼d. higher than last week. The price for two months forward delivery is quoted 31 9-16d. After touching 3/1⅜d our official quotation for T/T on London is today down to last week's closing rate 3/1⅛d. Money locally is easier and bar silver to the extent of over Tls. 2,000,000 is due before the end of the month, with a further Tls. 1,500,000 due early in July. The demand for remittance of Gold T/T exceeds the cover offering and our market is only steady for early delivery, and weak forward.

Our stocks of silver are reported as follows:—

Sycee and Bar Silver Tls. 22,444,000 an increase of Tls. 374,000.

Chinese and Mexican Dollars $34,730,000 an increase of $1,010,000.

Estimated value Tls. 47,449,000 as against Tls. 50,840,000 held at this time last year.

WHATHER

Hot weather, with local thunderstorms, probably improving. The typhoon, in the shape of a large depression with two centers: the one in land, the other off the mouth of the Yangtse, will continue slowly Northwards, attended with local squalls.

Tomorrow's Meeting

TOMORROW, at the Chinese Chamber of Commerce, a meeting of the entire membership will be held to discuss the present political situation in China. The directors at a preliminary meeting last week felt the grave responsibility attached to the chamber on a matter of such importance and decided that the members themselves must participate in their deliberations.

There has been too much nonsense in both the Northern and Southern political camps. Having fled Peking, President Li Yuan-hung is preparing to establish a government in Tientsin, which will be most quixotic. Sun Yat-sen has his hands full in the South fighting Chen Chiung-ming, as Tong Shao-yi rightly said the other day, "for nothing." To depend upon the political leaders of the nation for the solution of the situation is hopeless. The militarists and politicians have been given too many chances already and they have shown themselves to be absolutely incapable.

Parliament, now in session in Peking, of course, could have remedied the situation, but it didn't and now it cannot. Its members would rather sell their souls for so many dollars than do some honest work for the salvation of the country. The enactment of the Constitution was the only duty that they were called upon to perform after their reconvocation last Summer, but today they are just as distant from its promulgation as when the legislature was dissolved by Yuan Shih-k'ai.

Therefore, when what must be considered to be the people's most representative body fails, all hopes for the solution of the present political problem by existing machinery are shattered!

The merchants form the backbone of the country. We feel that the only hope now lies with them. A constructive plan, backed by the sane public opinion of the nation and along modern, scientific and practical lines, should be devised at once by the business men of the country and carried out within the next five months. Five months, because on October 10, Peking will have absolutely no leg to stand on, Parliament or no Parliament, President or no President. No matter what lenient allowance may be made for them, the Parliamentarians must lose their legal status on that day. On that day China must turn to a new page in her history and it is for that day that the merchants must prepare themselves.

Members of the chamber will recall that during his flying visit to Shanghai at the height of the Lincheng excitement, Minister Schurman reminded them that Government is a business proposition and that its only difference from private business is that it was run on a more elaborate scale. He also sounded a note of warning that unless the business men of the day take a hand in the administrative affairs, prospects for the reconstruction of the nation on modern lines will droop and grow darker.

The nation, even the world, will watch with keen interest the outcome of tomorrow's meeting. The chamber here is regarded as the model merchant organisation of China and any suggestion made by it must certainly receive consideration.

Members of the chamber! It is to you that we must address ourselves today. Pack up your business troubles for the afternoon and attend the meeting. Discard personal jealousies; forget political affiliations and help to formulate a conscientious program for the reconstruction of your country, and the preservation of your business.

AN OLD PEEVE

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

According to yesterday's Municipal Gazette the Band and Orchestra Committee of the Council has now under consideration a plan for raising the price of chairs at the band concerts from 30 cents to 50 cents.

When, in the name of Adam, is such senseless and irritating piffle going to stop?

The committee's minutes read: "if the concerts prove a success the price will be raised," (or words to that effect). That simply means that if enough people go to the concerts and desire the comfort of a chair rather than sit on the grass and spoil their while clothes they are to be taxed for their support twenty cents additional.

I think it is a crying shame that seats should be charged for at all. If they are going to charge for chairs, however, why not rook the 'deer peepul' gently. Why try to pay for the chairs in three or four concerts?

The Stroller.

ARE WE TO LEAVE IT TO THE EX-SERVICE MEN?

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Sir: May I through the medium of your paper be permitted to make an appeal to ex-service men for funds for the Shanghai War Memorial?

According to the last subscription list published in your issue of yesterday's date I note that up to the present only half the necessary amount has been subscribed.

The Memorial is nearing completion. There are at least a thousand ex-service men in Shanghai and in making this appeal to them I suggest that every ex-service man subscribe the sum of one dollar per month until such time as the required sum is reached. I shall be pleased to receive and forward monthly contributions to E. F. Goodale Esq., Hon. Tres. to the Memorial Fund.

Trusting that all ex-service men will again come forward and do their little bit so that the cenotaph to be erected in memory of comrades who made the supreme sacrifice in the Great War will not be completed before the necessary funds are raised. I am, etc.,

The World Of Books

The latest Browning book, "Robert Browning: The Poet and the Man," by Frances M. Sim (D. Appleton and Co. New York: $3), covering only the poet's youth and early manhood up to his marriage with Elizabeth Barrett, suggests that the hymn "Nearer, My God, to Thee," ordinarily attributed to Sarah Flower Adams, may in reality have been written by Browning. Frankly, it cannot be said that the author's evidence goes far toward supporting her thesis, but, in justice to her, it must also be said that she sets forth the view rather hesitatingly and without much confidence in it. "Nearer, My God, to Thee." written by Sarah Flower Adams, is really a more interesting thing than "Nearer, My God, to Thee," written by Robert Browning. The lives of the two Flower sisters, Sarah and Eliza, and Browning's friendship with them and with the brilliant and earnest clergyman and political thinker, into whose career one of them brought so much scandal, make a story of curious interest, regardless of speculation as to the authorship of the familiar hymn.

Eliza Flower was Browning's music teacher, and it is not surprising, though she was nine years his senior, that he conceived a romantic affection for her and that she inspired his youthful poem, "Pauline," printed in 1832. In 1829 Eliza Flower and her younger sister, Sarah, on the death of their father, had been received as wards into the household of Rev. W. J. Fox, Unitarian minister, and founder of the South Place chapel. Even in the early decades of the 19th century it required some moral courage to be aggressive nonconformists. The father of the two young women had been imprisoned for a short term for criticising the bishop of Llandaff. Browning himself was not eligible to study for a degree at either Oxford or Cambridge. Mr. Fox, one of the leading Liberals and nonconformists of his day and a member of Parliament, did not suffer so much annoyance for his faith as he did for the presence in his home of Miss Eliza Flower, though it was never suggested that their relations were other than those of intellectual and spiritual companionship. In fact, his position as minister of South Place chapel seems never to have been jeopardised, even after his wife left him in 1833.

The author of this new book on Browning says that Eliza Flower's position in the Fox home "explains the mystery of Browning's broken friendship with her and the loss of her musical genius to the world." But the truth is that, while his romantic attachment may have been disrupted, his friendship remained. It was at the house of Mr. Fox in 1835 that Browning met Macready, the actor, and it is on Browning's friendship with Mr. Fox and the two Flower sisters that this author rests the whole case for his authorship of "Nearer My God, to Thee." That hymn was first given to the world in 1840 in a new hymnal of South Place chapel compiled by Mr. Fox and Miss Eliza Flower. As for Miss Flower's musical career having been ruined by her association with Mr. Fox, the explanation appears to lie in the fact, or theory, that people would not buy her music because they were prejudiced against her on account of her usurpation of the place of Mrs. Fox. In 1897 her series of musical illustrations of Sir Walter Scott's novels was published in honor of her memory by members of South Place chapel.

The author of this new Browning book tells us that if Browning did not write "Nearer, My God, to Thee," generously allowing it to appear as the work of Sarah Flower Adams, he was very meagerly represented in the hymnal, his only acknowledged work to be published therein being a few lines from "Paracelsus." But there is not the slightest evidence that he was asked to contribute any original verses. The manuscript of the hymn bears neither title nor signature, but it reveals corrections in another handwriting from that of the author's. "Why did Eliza Flower cherish this manuscript? Why did she not sign her sister's name to it?" Why, in short, was it kept to be passed on to the British museum many years later?

These questions are, perhaps, unanswerable in full, but no conjecture necessarily connects Browning with any of them. If Browning wrote the original, surely it was not corrected by anyone else. The only evidence for supposing that Sarah Flower Adams did not write it is that its language and emotion are deeper than in her other writings. "The character of Sarah Flower . . . does not display this God-intoxication, this determination to get to God, this passon of soul to raise a Bethel out of its griefs, the determination to praise and trust though left to darkness and despair." Yet she wrote other hymns and in the hymnal of South Place chapel no fewer than 13 are attributed to her.

Sarah Flower had been married in 1834. That the marriage was not happy is to be inferred from Mr. Browning's remark to Mr. Gosse—"Sarah Flower, too sadly known as Sarah Flower Adams." In Harriet Martineau's novel, "Five Years of Youth," or, as the subtitle has it, "Sense and Sentiment," Eliza Flower is pictured as Sense and Sarah Flower as Sentiment. The older sister, the one who precipitated the separation in Mr. Fox's home, is shown as possessing marked strength of character and the gift of self-sacrifice. The younger one, or Sarah Flower, is described as "delicate in health, weak in spirits, the wish to do but impotent to perform, a strong understanding which was no use to anybody . . . a lively sympathy for other people's feelings, which did not prevent her irritating or wounding them perpetually." She pursued dramatic fame with great eagerness, having some talent, and performing Shakespearean roles with considerable success. But ill health and deafness drove her from the stage.

Probably few persons who sing "Nearer, My God, to Thee," ever stop to consider that it was written by a woman whose animating purpose was predominantly theatrical rather than religious. But there is no conflict between histrionic and poetic gifts, though actually they seldom appear in the same person. (Mrs. Benjamin Butler, wife of the former Massachusetts governor, possessed the same combination of talents—or, at all events, of tastes.) And there are other hymns which are far from giving us any profound idea of the personality of the author. "In the Cross of Christ I Glory," a hymn more evangelical in its phraseology than "Nearer, My God, to Thee," though also written by a Unitarian, was the work of an English linguist and political economist.

Was Sir John Bowring a gentle, pious soul, as the hymn indicates? Well, not as British governor of Hongkong. "The irritation caused by his 'spirited' or high-handed policy," says the Encyclopedia Britannica, "led to the second war with China." The incident which precipitated this war was the seizure of the Arrow, a small vessel, whose British registry had expired, by Yeh, the Chinese governor of Canton. Bowring took the line that the Chinese were not entitled to plead the excuse that the Arrow's British registry had expired because they could not have been aware of the fact! Perhaps the truth is that Sir John Bowring was by nature a scholar and thinker rather than a political administrator.

The School Teacher

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

A gentleman whom I know in Pennsylvania has recently paid a very just, though not sufficiently common, tribute to the teacher who led his mind in his youth. He has had erected in the school house a beautiful bronze memorial, bearing an appropriate inscription, together with a medallion portrait of his old teacher, who died a year or two ago at the age of more than ninety. It is a satisfaction to know that the old man was aware, shortly before his death, of the intention of his former pupil. The passage out of life is brightened by such things.

On the part of the living these links with the past insure the future. The man who remembers with gratitude his early teacher strengthens his own character. Such a memorial as this is better than a graveyard monument.

The standing of the teacher has changed somewhat in these later years. He, or she, is apt to be not quite so personal a guide and model for the pupil. The intimate human touch is less felt. The same influences that have affected the doctor have acted also upon the teacher. Neither can be so much a "general practitioner," or a confidant, as was once the case.

This is, perhaps, an inevitable result of the enormous growth of schools of all kinds, not only in numbers of puplis, with which the numbers of teachers can never keep abreast, but in the multiplicity of the subjects taught and in the methods of teaching. The social and moral influence of the teacher can hardly be as wide and effective as it was in former times.

The forming of the mind in youth does not depend solely upon direct training of the intellect. It is not a padding process, nor a gymnastic discipline. I am sure that my friend in Pennsylvania in paying his tribute to the guide of his youth was not moved by memories of drill in spelling and in doing sums, or by recollecting the mental abilities and acquirements of his master.

That master had established better claims upon his gratitude, although he may not, then, have appreciated their nature. The master was an all-around example of a man and his ability to awaken interest, was the source of his lasting influence.

Very much more effective, in many cases, than the influences of home are those of the school in shaping the mind and character of a pupil. In protestant countries, and in a growing extent in others, the influence of the church over the young is diminishing relatively to that of the school. All the greater necessity, then, that teachers should be men and women of high moral character.

But, as long as the examples of manhood and womanhood set by school teachers are such as the common moral sense of civilised mankind approves such teachers will be doing their full duty, in proportion to their abilities, and earning the lasting gratitude of their pupils. As things are at present, a black sheep in the church has far less pernicious influence than one in the school.

The good teacher is worthy of memorials. And by them he continues to live and teach. I have seen schools whose walls were covered with portraits of former teachers, which seemed to me to be an asset in the character-forming power of the school. There are many members of the bar of New York whose memories grow warm on seeing a memorial portrait of that wonderful teacher—scion of a family of teachers—Theodore W. Dwight.

Thus the influence and inspiration of a great teacher are perpetuated, sometimes for much more than a generation after his death. A bust of Maria Mitchell at Vassal College may inspire a new Mary Somerville among the girl students. Whenever I return to Cornell University and see the statue of Andrew D. White on the campus I am strengthened in the desire to learn something.

If there was a memorial portrait of a certain teacher in the still existing country schoolhouse where I was a barefoot pupil that teacher's unforgotten influence would be perhaps enhanced.

Help Those Who Deserve To Get Started Right

BY J. J. MUNDY

In your place of employment is there not some person who appears to make every effort to do the work assigned, but is unable to accomplish what is expected?

Would it not be a real good Samaritan act for you to give a little advice to such a person, perhaps a little help, in order to assist in getting the desired accomplishment or requirements.

Although he or she is a stranger, someone in whom you feel you are not called upon to display an interest, if an honest effort is beng made to meet demands in the institution is it not up to you to assist such a person anyway?

Some pick up new work quickly and others do not. But those who are slow in adapting themselves to new conditions are often strong on production once they have learned what is expected.

Some persons deserve help to get started in the right way.

If the new person should be discharged for inefficency it might be a serious matter for him.

A little help from you, a few suggestions perhaps, and you may have prevented a calamity in the life of another.

HUGHES SAYS U. S. HAS EVERY PEACE ASSURANCE

Washington Conference Scrapped Distrust As Well As Warships

Washington, June 20.—America has "every assurance of abiding peace," so far "our relations with other people are concerned," Secretary Hughes said in an address before the National Conference of Social Workers.

"The clouds which two years ago darkened the Far Eastern sky have been dissipated," he said. And to the disappointment of those who make bitterness the test of patriotism we have been able to asscciate the great powers of the Pacific in a friendly accord supported by mutual confidence, while at the same time we have carefully preserved the sound American tradition of freedom from alliance and the principle of equality of opportunity."

Mr. Hughes said this had been accomplished by achieving "a disarmament of thought," and that the Washington arms conference had "managed to scrap distrust as well as the vessels of war" and to end wasteful competition, "which spelled not security but suspicion."

PEACE OUTLOOK GOOD

"To-day, notwithstanding the gravity of unsettled issues," Mr. Hughes continued, "we find throughout the world ample reason for encouragement in the earnest efforts to remove the economic evils following the great war in the exhibition of enhanced industrial capacity, in the swift repair of damaged areas, in the extraordinary extent of recovery, despite all difficulties.

"So great has been the progress that it is not too much to say that the whole aspect of affairs would instantly change if only means could be found to dispel the fear and apprehension which is the barrier to accord and to give a sound basis for the confidence which all desire."

The Secretary of State said it was clear that essential conditions of peace "are not to be found in artificial arrangements," but that it was "the disposition of peoples that counts."

"It is idle to talk of proscribing war unless the peoples are intent on maintaining peace," he added. "You cannot maintain peace by force, for who will supply, who will control, who will direct the force?

MUST CULTIVATE GOOD WILL

"If those who are keenly desirous of enduring peace will descend to the contemplation of realities, it will be seen that there is only one way to the goal—a long and difficult way—that is, by the cultivation of the spirit of friendship and good will among people through which alone the sources of dangerous ills can be dried up."

Mr. Hughes declared that those "who create a public sentiment which makes it difficult for honorable statesmen to find ways to practicable adjustment" of international problems were worse offenders than intriguing diplomats.

The Secretary of State said that if America was understood abroad, it was because of the gratitude there for the work done by American relief agencies. It is well to recognise, he added, that there does exist "what has happily been called a ground swell of popular good will toward this country."

Referring to the republics of South America and Central America and policies for "their development secure in independence and in immunity from foreign intrigue," Mr. Hughes declared that only those suffering from "mental indigestion" failed to realise that the United States "cherished no imperialistic designs."
